About Moore College

Moore College exists to train men and women to take the good news of Jesus Christ to the world. Since 1856, more than 5,000 students have graduated from the college and have been sent out by God. Moore College has equipped men and women to serve in over 50 countries across the World. Today over 3,500 students are enrolled in our courses globally.

The college continues to be supported by the financial gifts of many. One key way that people have given is by way of bequests. Would you prayerfully consider adding Moore College to your will so that our gospel work will continue to grow?

What makes Moore worthy of support? We prepare men and women for lives of ministry. Foundational to this are the five key priorities to their training:

Biblical – the Bible is at the centre of everything we do.

Theological – we train students to think theologically.

Christ-centred – salvation is by faith alone through Christ alone.

Missional – the global mission of the Lord Jesus Christ drives everything we do.

Communal – we are shaped as Christian disciples, as we do life together in community.

Please consider investing in our ministry.

An Enduring Gift

Your bequest to Moore College

Background

Did you know that Moore College began as the result of a gift in a will? When Thomas Moore passed away in 1840, he gifted a large portion of his estate to the establishment of a theological college in Sydney. As a result, Moore Theological College was opened in 1856 with three students and one tutor!

Gifts in wills continue to be a significant element in funding the ministry of the College. Recently, the John Chapman Preaching Clinics and Conferences initiative was set up based on a bequest from John Chapman. “Chappo” left his gift with the intention of training the next generation of Bible teachers in preaching.

Other gifts have enabled Bible courses to be translated into varied languages for training Christians with our partners around the world, even in prisons! As well, they’ve funded key tools to maximise students’ learning experiences at College like the library and IT. Bequests have also helped to build, renovate and maintain our buildings.

Please think about the possibility of a Bequest and contact the Head of Foundation +61 (0)2 9577 9900 or FoundationHead@moore.edu.au for a confidential discussion.

Suggested wording for your will

The suggested wording for gifts in wills follows. These words may be varied and made more specific depending on your wishes. Check the wording with the Head of the Moore College Foundation if in doubt. The College can also obtain legal advice for you if this is required.

I give *either the sum of _____ (words or figures for a $ amount), or _____ (words or figures for a ) percentage of my estate, to Moore Theological College Council for the general purposes (or specific purpose) of the college, and I declare that the receipt of the treasurer of the College Council shall be a full and sufficient discharge to the executor.

*if the gift is of shares or real property or art work then sufficient words to identify same should be substituted.

Steps to preparing your will

As you consider making a gift in your will to Moore College, we’d like to offer the below points of guidance.

1. Prayerfully consider how you’d like to distribute your assets:

Think about what will make up your estate, and who you’d like to include in your will. If Moore College is being considered, please contact the Head of Foundation on +61 (0)2 9577 9900 or FoundationHead@moore.edu.au to discuss areas of need as well as your own preferences.

2. Prepare your will and seek legal advice to make it sure it will be binding:

Your will is a legal document and disputed wills are common. Therefore, we’d suggest you seek independent advice from a solicitor.

3. Tell Moore College about your gift:

We’d like to take the opportunity to thank you, so please contact us to tell us confidentially that you’ve included Moore College in your will. To do this, please contact the Head of Foundation on +61 (0)2 9577 9900 or FoundationHead@moore.edu.au or by mail to Head of Foundation, Moore College, 1 King St, Newtown, NSW 2042, Australia.
