Each College mission experience will reflect the three purposes of our missions, but the relative weight of the purposes will differ from mission to mission. Which of these three purposes will be the most significant one for this particular mission proposal

- To be active in God's mission of bringing all things under Christ
- To give expression to unity and partnership in the gospel
- To further train our students

Mission Proposal

How a college mission would complement your ongoing ministry

Describe how a college mission would contribute to your church or ministry's ongoing efforts to proclaim the Lord Jesus. i.e. are you looking for the College mission to kick start something, or to slot into an ongoing process with lots of momentum already, or to do something quite different, or to provide something that the local church or ministry cannot.

Describe the training input and/or experience that the church or ministry would be providing students during mission.

What unique or additional capacity do you hope a College mission team might bring to the church or ministry? Are there things that could not or would not happen without the involvement of the College team, or would people from the church or ministry fill the roles?"

To what extent do you expect that the College team would be engaged in activities alongside congregation members or ministry team members, and to what extent would they be expected to operate independently?

What do you hope will be the key ongoing benefits for the people of your church or ministry, from hosting a College Mission?"

Preparation for mission

What would your church or ministry do in preparation for a College Mission Week?

Follow up from mission

What would your church do to follow up after the mission week?

Ideal make up of College Mission Team

Would you prefer a College Mission Team of;

- 12 people or less
- 10-15 people
- 15-25 people

Are there any other considerations relevant for us in considering the make-up of the team? (e.g. ministry in a men's prison, all girls' school, particular language proficiency etc.)

Key Activities and Training

Please provide a list of key activities and training opportunities that you plan organise and use students for during the mission. This list is not expected to be exhaustive, but should provide an indication of the number, scope and nature of activities you anticipate. More than 30% of College students are women, and it is helpful to specifically list ministry activities where your church would prefer or require a woman to teach or lead. Some examples are provided below. Please add as many rows as you need.

| Description of key activity or training | Number of students involved | Purpose of activity |
|---|--|---|
| Preaching at sermons at three church services each Sunday of mission | 2-6 students | evangelistic |
| Door-knocking a new housing development in company with people from the church on Saturday morning | 15 students | awareness raising/evangelism |
| Women's evangelistic dinner | 1 female speaker 4 women to meet and pray with new-comers | evangelism |
| Structured input and reflection regarding the ministry by key members of the ministry team (4 X 30 minute slots throughout the week) | all students | training and reflection on ministry practice |

Logistics

Accommodation

Most Moore College Missions are 'residential' and the staff and students are expected to live away from their homes in accommodation provided by the hosting church or ministry. This would normally be done through team members being billeted in the homes of church members for the week. Although an unusual experience we have found billeting to provide many opportunities for mutual blessing. With such arrangements we need to ensure that neither hosts or church members are placed in compromising situations such as people of the opposite sex being left alone with one-another or feeling unsafe. If a host church or ministry is in Sydney, they can opt to have a 'non-residential' mission, where team members would travel to and from their homes each day.

Are you proposing to host a residential or non-residential mission?

- Residential
 Non-residential

Meals

It is normally expected that hosting churches or ministries will supply all meals for the team during mission (except breakfast for non-residential teams). Is your church or ministry able to supply all meals for the team during mission?

- We will supply all meals for the College team while they are on mission with us.
 College team members will be required to supply the following meals for themselves (Please provide details)

Travel and other expenses

Some of our students have limited financial means. It is important in our planning and care for them that we anticipate any costs that they may incur. Please indicate any travel or other expenses that you expect mission team members will need to cover during the mission. (Add lines if needed – delete if not applicable)

| Cost Item per team member | Cost in Australian Dollars |
